LEHIGH COUNTY COMMISSIONER RON BEITLER ENDORSES KEVIN DELLICKER FOR CONGRESS

LEHIGH COUNTY, PA – Lehigh County Commissioner Ron Beitler announced his endorsement of Kevin Dellicker’s campaign for Congress on Thursday.

“I wholeheartedly endorse Kevin Dellicker for Congress,” said Beitler.

Beitler contrasted Dellicker’s small business background with career politicians. “Small businesses represent the backbone of communities, yet career politicians often lack first-hand experience with their challenges. Kevin, a small business owner himself, not only understands these challenges, but also offers working solution to address everyday challenges.”

Beitler has served on the Lehigh County Board of Commissioners since 2021. He previously served two terms as a Lower Macungie Township Commissioner. He has owned and operated several successful small businesses in the Lehigh Valley.

“As both a dad and small business owner myself, I trust Kevin to represent our community in Congress.”

Dellicker thanked Beitler for his support: “I’m grateful and humbled to have Commissioner Beitler’s endorsement. He has made an impact on our community both as a small business owner and as a county commissioner. He works tirelessly for us taxpayers in the county and I look forward to doing the same in Washington.”

Kevin Dellicker is a candidate for Congress in Pennsylvania’s 7th Congressional District, which includes all of Carbon, Lehigh, and Northampton Counties, and part of Monroe County. He is the founder of a technology company that helps organizations upgrade their broadband infrastructure and protect their digital information. He’s a 28-year veteran of the U.S. Armed Forces with four combat zone deployments. Kevin is trained as a Christian minister and lives on a small farm in Germansville with his wife Susan and three sons Will, Jake, and Eli.
